

ANTIQUES

ART &

WEEKLY 50p

May 5, 1979 Volume 36 Number 6

exhibition will show evidence of delicate amber and bone working, jet carving, wood turning, and stone carving. An extensive section on the art of the jeweller will lead on to a section where the masterpieces of Viking art are displayed.

Reference will be made to the early political history of the Viking homelands and settlements, and the development of national states. The exhibition will conclude with a range of exhibits illustrating the widespread adoption of Christian ideas in the Scandinavian world.

History of film

A COMING Arts Council exhibition, Film on Film (sub-titled Formal Experiment in Film 1910-1975), will examine the relationship between the major art movements of this century and the development of the formal film. Over 100 artist/film-makers are to be represented by films, drawings, paintings and diagrams, their work spanning the years between the first hand-painted film experiments of the Futurists and films produced using advanced technology today. The exhibition will be held at the Hayward Gallery, London until June 17.

Hungarian garb

OVER 60 complete Hungarian costumes dating from the 16th to 20th centuries will be on display at the Whitworth Art Gallery from June 2. The exhibition, Historic Hungarian Costume from Budapest, has been organised as part of the Anglo-Hungarian cultural exchange programme.

Among the exhibits are the costume of Emperor Joseph II (1741-1790) worn as a boy, and the gala dress of the Countess Gyorgy Majlath worn at the coronation of Franz Joseph I in 1867.

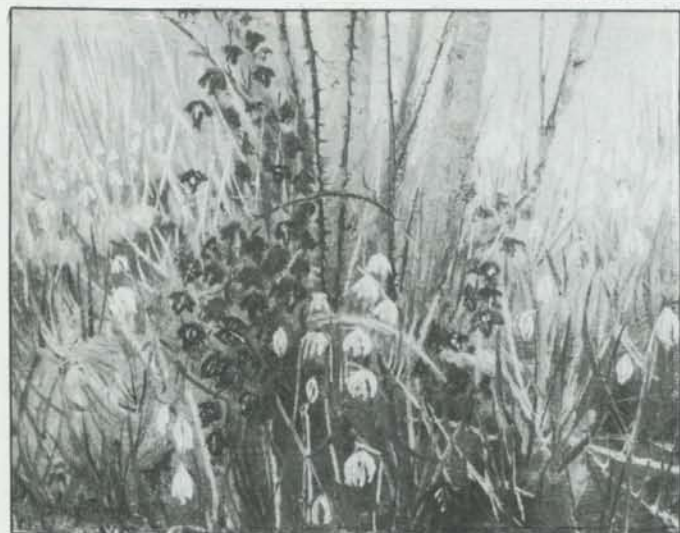

The costumes, lent by the Hungarian National Museum, the Museum of Hungarian man's suit, 1860-70, loaned by the Ethnographic Museum, Budapest, to the Whitworth Art Gallery for the exhibition from June 2-August 11

Applied Arts and the Ethnographic Museum of Budapest, will be complemented by jewellery and accessories.

The exhibition closes on August 11.

Snowdrops and Ivy, oil on canvas, from an exhibition of landscapes by Olivia Temple at the Langton Gallery, 3 Langton Street, London SW10, from May 8-13. London-born, the artist now lives near Sedgemoor in Somerset where she paints the surrounding landscapes and its changing seasons

In brief...

Lopex, the advertising and communications group, is to sponsor an annual sculpture prize of £750 at St Martin's School of Art. It will be named the Sykes prize after the founder of the Lopex Group and 'will encourage students to conduct research into natural objects'. The first award will be made at the degree exhibition this year.

Burnham Antiques Fair, scheduled for May 24, has been postponed until May 31. For further details ring Farnham Common 2067.

Drawings and photographs by Michael Chaitow will be on show in Image India, an exhibition at the Camden Arts Centre from May 10-June 3. The works form a record of the artist's trip to India from 1971-73.

The Photographer's Gallery, 8 Great Newport Street, London WC2, will show, between May 16-June 3, the work of Florence Henri and Henri de Monfreid. Both were active during the 1920s — Henri in the 'New Objectivity' style, and De Monfreid illustrating life in the Gulf States and North Africa.

Recent paintings by Paul Russo is the subject of an exhibition at Wildenstein, 147 New Bond Street, London W1, until May 18.

The Valhalla Collection of ships' figureheads and other maritime artefacts are to be allocated to the National Maritime Museum. The Collection was accepted by HM Treasury in lieu of estate duty and paid for by the National Land Fund.

The Hayward Gallery, London, will show 400 drawings by the Spanish artist Miró until May 13.

Castle Fairs' North-East-Counties' fair, between May 11 and 13, will be held in Durham Town Hall. Exhibits will include furniture, clocks, glass, silver and objets d'art. Admission 60p.

The fifth Doll & Juvenilia Fair will be held at the Cumberland Hotel, Marble Arch, London W1, on September 30 between 11am and 5pm. Admission 50p.

The one-day fair scheduled by Seekers Fairs Huguenot Promotions to take place at the New Community Centre, New Denham, on May 18 has been cancelled.

A large selection of Victorian watercolours will be on show and for sale at the Marble Hill Gallery, 72 Richmond Road, Twickenham, Middlesex, from May 11-13.